

Draft Preamble for a Planetary Constitution

We, the people of Earth, united by our common humanity and sharing a common ancestry and a common home on this planet, declare that every human life is equal, invaluable, and sacred.

Recognizing that war, corruption, injustice, and environmental destruction threaten the future of our species, we establish this Constitution to secure peace, protect human freedom, defend justice, and ensure fairness for all people.

Our purpose is to end war, prevent hunger and unnecessary suffering, protect the natural systems of our planet, and guarantee the fundamental rights and freedoms of every human being.

We affirm that every person has the right to freedom of belief, freedom of speech, access to knowledge, participation in free and fair elections, and the opportunity for education and human development.

We recognize that governments exist to serve the people and must remain accountable, transparent, and subject to democratic reform.

Where national governments fail to protect the rights and safety of their citizens, humanity has the responsibility to establish institutions capable of safeguarding those rights for all people.

To ensure peace, dignity, environmental preservation, and justice for all generations, we create this democratic framework for global governance.
