

Toward Planetary Governance

We believe humanity needs a planetary political system capable of protecting human life and human rights. At present, the conditions do not exist for a planetary democratic republic, but we believe this idea is worth serious discussion.

Any legitimate planetary system must:

- Be democratic and nonviolent
- Be based on the consent of the governed
- Protect fundamental human rights
- Be grounded in a widely accepted planetary constitution

We recognize that no nation will easily surrender sovereignty. Therefore, any planetary governance must emerge voluntarily through popular support, not force.
