

Why War and Corruption Must End

An examination of war as a failure of politics, morality, and imagination, and a case for permanent planetary peace institutions.

Corruption as a Crime Against Humanity

How corruption erodes human rights, democracy, and economic justice—and why it must be treated as a planetary crime.

Sovereignty and Responsibility

National sovereignty should not trump the right to live free from violence and oppression.

The Influence of Citizens and the Foundation of Democracy

From the American Revolution to modern nonviolent movements, the moral authority of the people as agents of change.