

A Culture of Human Dignity

The PFJF vision is rooted in the belief that every human being possesses dignity and value.

No person should be denied rights because of:

- Nationality
- Race
- Religion
- Gender
- Sexual orientation
- Disability
- Political belief
- Language
- Economic status

The movement supports equal dignity under the law for all people.

Hope for Humanity

History shows that humanity can change.

Slavery was once considered normal. Women were denied political rights. Religious persecution was widespread. Many forms of discrimination once accepted are now rejected.

Human progress is possible when people organize peacefully around moral principles.

The PFJF Movement believes humanity can continue progressing toward a more peaceful, free, just, and fair civilization.
