

A Declaration of Planetary Purpose

Introduction

We, the people of Planet Earth, recognize that humanity faces challenges that no nation can solve alone. War, genocide, political corruption, hunger, preventable disease, environmental destruction, censorship, and inequality threaten the dignity, freedom, and survival of human beings everywhere.

We believe that every human life is sacred, equal, and invaluable beyond monetary measure. We believe that all people deserve peace, freedom, justice, fairness, opportunity, and protection under the law.

We therefore declare our shared planetary purpose:

- To protect human life.
- To reduce human suffering.
- To prevent war and genocide.
- To defend human rights and freedoms.
- To eliminate corruption and tyranny.
- To preserve the natural systems upon which life depends.
- To build institutions that represent the will and welfare of humanity.

Our Common Principles

We affirm that:

- Peace is better than war.
- Truth is better than falsehood.
- Freedom is better than oppression.
- Justice is better than injustice.
- Fairness is better than exploitation.
- Compassion is better than hatred.
- Cooperation is better than destruction.

We believe humanity is one family. Every person alive today shares a common ancestry and a common future.
